AGM University Nursing MSN-FNP Program

End of Program SLOs and Role Specific Nursing Competencies

End of Program SLO	Role Specific Nursing Competencies	AACN Essential Domain
1. Synthesize theoretical and empirical knowledge from sciences, technology, and nursing, as a basis for nursing scholarship and practice.	1.1 Demonstrate clinical judgment using a systematic approach to inform, improve, and advance NP practice processes and outcomes. (NONPF 1.3f) 1.2 Demonstrate accountability to practice within the regulatory standard and scope of educational preparation. (NONPF 9.2n)	1: Knowledge for Nursing Practice Domain 9: Professionalism
2. Develop personal, professional, and leadership skills that support interprofessional practice.	2.1 Use knowledge of nursing and other professions to address healthcare needs. (NONPF 6.3) 2.2 Develop capacity for leadership in the complex role of the NP. (NONPF 10.3/10.3r)	6: Interprofessional Practice 10: Personal, Professional, and Leadership Development
3. Apply evidence-based practice and clinical reasoning to provide individualized, culturally competent patient-centered care.	3.1 Translate knowledge from clinical practice and other professions to improve population health outcomes. (NONPF 4.3j) 3.2 Provide holistic person-centered care by developing a culturally-informed, mutually acceptable, cost-conscious, and evidence-based plan of care. (NONPF 2.5k)	4: Scholarship for Nursing Discipline 2: Person Centered Care
4. Integrate technology to promote quality and safety.	4.1 (Ethically) Use information and communication technology to support documentation of care and communication among providers, patients, and all system levels. (NONPF 8.4) 4.2 Apply quality improvement principles in care delivery. (NONPF 5.1)	Domain 8: Informatics and Healthcare Technologies Domain 5: Quality and Safety
5. Apply population health models and systems knowledge to promote health outcomes.	5.1 Integrate findings of population health data to impact competent care. (NONPF 3.1p) 5.2 Optimize system effectiveness through application of innovation and evidence-based practice. (NONPF 7.3)	Domain 3: Population Health Domain 7: Systems Based Practice